Positive relationships

Ivington CE (VA) Primary and Pre-school

It was revised during the:

Autumn Term 2023

It has been agreed and is supported by the teaching staff and the governing body

Autumn Term 2026

Linking with our Vision – Reaching together with Love, Joy and Peace (Galatians 5:22-23)

To provide a caring, Christian ethos for the school, which inspires and excites a shared enthusiasm for life and learning.

At Ivington CE Primary and Pre-school, through our strong Christian ethos and focus on nine important Christian values, we are committed to providing a deeply nourishing, spiritual, ambitious, and broad curriculum.

Our motto, 'Reaching together' underpins our belief in equality of opportunity for all, where we actively endeavour to promote understanding and appreciation of our diverse society and give each child a special place in the world where they feel valued, essential to our community and equipped with the necessary skills to make a positive contribution.

We perceive our role to be opening a 'Window on the World', through which our pupils are actively encouraged to develop respect for the beliefs and cultures which enrich their everyday lives and encourage others to do likewise.

We strive to eliminate inequality through our deep Christian ethos of respect and understanding of all groups in society, which ensures that everyone at Ivington will be treated fairly despite his or her creed, colour, disability, or gender.

More details are available in our Inclusion, Racial Equality and Equal Opportunities policies.

The health, safety, and welfare of all the people who work or learn at our school are therefore of fundamental importance. We aim to provide a safe, secure, and pleasant working environment for everyone. The governing body, along with the LA, takes responsibility for protecting the health, safety and welfare of all children and members of staff.

Ready, Respectful, Safe

At Ivington, we are committed to creating an environment where outstanding behaviour is at the heart of everything we do. Everyone is expected to maintain the highest standards of personal conduct, to accept responsibility for their behaviour and encourage others to do the same. We aim to be calm and consistent at all times in our dealing with children; this fits with the calm, quiet and productive working environment we aim to foster.

Restorative practice is key to our approach and there is an expectation that everyone develops trusting communication with one another. This includes all staff, children, visitors, parents and carers.

We want our learners to be 'Ready' to learn, to be 'Respectful' of each other and to feel 'Safe'. We want this relationships policy to echo this.

Policy Statement

This policy is based on guidance provided by Herefordshire Local Authority and has included input from members of the school community. It is developed to ensure guidance for staff in order to promote positive behaviour in school. The procedures and guidance in this document provide a consistent approach across the school and enables pupils, parents and staff to understand our approaches to the management of behaviour in school. It is also recognised that for some pupils, variance on these procedures will be made in order to meet any specific social, emotional, learning or other needs which require a personalised approach; guidance for this appears in the appendix and approaches can be discussed with the Inclusion leader or member of the Leadership Team.

It is a primary aim of our school that every member of the school community feels valued and respected, and that each person is treated fairly and as an individual.

We are a caring community, whose values are built on Christian morality, mutual trust and respect for all. This policy is therefore designed to support the way in which all members of the school can live and work together in a supportive way. It aims to promote an environment where everyone feels happy, safe, secure and can flourish..

Aims and Expectations

We are committed to the emotional mental health and well-being of staff, pupils and parents/carers. We wish to work towards this in all aspects of school life, and to provide an ethos, environment and curriculum that supports the social, emotional and mental health of the whole school community.

It is acknowledged that members of the school may have very different parenting experiences and views on behaviour. However, the aim of our Promoting Positive Relationships and Supporting Behaviour Regulation Policy is to bring us all together to adhere to some basic key principles and practices that reflect our ethos.

The school treats all children with unconditional respect and has high expectations for both adults' and children's learning and social behaviours. The school is calm and purposeful. It prides itself on excellent relationships and high level of care. We understand that positive behaviour can be taught and needs to be modelled. We understand that negative behaviour can signal a need for support which we will provide without diluting our expectations.

- Ivington Primary School has a number of school rules, but the primary aim of this policy is not a system to enforce rules. It is a means of promoting good relationships, so that people can work together with the common purpose of helping everyone to learn. This policy supports the school community in aiming to allow everyone to work together in an effective and considerate way.
- The school expects every member of the school community to behave in a considerate way towards others.
- We treat all children fairly and apply this Relationships Policy in a consistent way, ensuring reasonable adjustments are made for children with Special Educational Needs and disabilities (SEND) or Social, Emotional, Behaviour Difficulties (SEBD).
- This policy aims to help children to grow in a safe and secure environment, and to become positive, responsible and increasingly independent members of the school community.
- The school rewards good behaviour, as it believes that this will develop an ethos of kindness and co-operation. This policy is designed to promote good behaviour, rather than merely deter anti-social behaviour.
- The school continues to follow a 'Reaching Together Code of Conduct' which is displayed throughout the school with Ready, Respectful, Safe being out mantra.

We hope to achieve these aims through implementation of this policy based on rights, responsibilities and respect. Praise, rewards, privileges, and positive role-modelling support the development of self-discipline and the capacity to make positive choices.

We teach and promote positive managements of behaviour that include:

- Whole School and Class Worship: These are value based and thematic such as 'Caring for Others', 'Anti -bullying week', 'How to be a good friend', 'Who to go to if you need help'. There is a plan for the year with themes for each week including: racism; homophobia; gender based language; tolerance and respect; disability awareness.

- JIGSAW sessions: all children have a weekly PSHE lesson which include strategies to deal with different situations and ways to help regulate emotions.
- whole school days/weeks: specific focus weeks are used to raise the profile of certain aspects; these include: Kindness Week; Anti Bullying Week; and Manners Week
- School Curriculum including RE and thematic progressions
- High focus on all staff developing positive relationships with children
- Clear and consistent routines in classrooms, around the school and in the wider community
- High expectations from staff about conduct in class and around the school
- Clear pathways when behaviour causes a concern and positive reinforcement for good behaviour

Roles and Responsibilities

Maintaining a positive culture, climate and conditions for learning is the responsibility of all staff, governors and parents/carers. We expect our staff and parents/carers to be a good role model for our children as we develop their attitudes for all aspects of life.

Our guiding principles in moving towards the promotion of positive relationships and supporting a behaviour regulation approach are:

- Being 'fair' is not about everyone getting the same (equality) but about everyone getting what they need (equity). This is why our response to behaviour incidents and support for children's needs is differentiated.
- Behaviour is a form of communication. The change in terminology in the 2014 Code of Practice of Special Educational Needs (SEN) - which replaces the Behaviour and Social Difficulties (BESD) with Social, Emotional, and Mental Health (SEMH) difficulties – helps to promote a shift towards viewing behaviour as a communication of an emotional need (whether conscious or unconscious) and responding accordingly.
- Taking a non-judgmental, curious and empathic attitude towards behaviour. We encourage all adults in the school environment to respond in a way that focuses on the feelings and emotions that might drive certain behaviour, rather than the behaviour itself. Children with behavioural difficulties need to be regarded as vulnerable rather than troublesome, and we all have a duty to explore this vulnerability and provide appropriate support.

“Thinking of a child as behaving badly disposes you to think of punishment. Thinking of a child as struggling to handle something difficult encourages you to help them through their distress”

- Putting relationships first. Our school ethos promotes strong relationships between staff, children and their parents/carers. It also relies on creating a positive school culture and climate that fosters connection, inclusion, respect and value for all members of the school community.
- Maintaining clear boundaries and expectations around behaviour. Changing how we respond to behaviour does not mean having no expectations, routines or structure. In order to help children feel safe, their educational environment needs to be high in both nurture and structure. Children need predictable routines, expectations and responses to behaviour. These must be in place and modelled appropriately, within the context of a safe and caring school environment. Natural rewards and consequences that can follow certain behaviours should be made explicit, without the need to enforce 'sanctions' that can shame and ostracize children from their peers, school community and family, leading to potentially more negative or harmful behaviour.

- Not all behaviours are a matter of 'choice' and not all factors linked to the behaviour of children are within their control. Therefore, the language of choice (e.g. 'good choice/bad choice') is not always helpful.
- Behaviour must always be viewed systemically and within the context of important relationships i.e., a relational communication pattern rather than an internal problem.
- Adult behaviour shapes children's expectations and behaviours. All staff must be gentle, respectful and positive in all of their dealings with children of any age. Staff must always take a child-centred approach, and are expected to be mindful at all times of the way they speak to and respond to children, and should model good manners at all times. We are mindful of our body language and facial expressions; we smile! Teachers' professional learning helps them to understand how a nurturing approach and appreciation of attachment theory can further enable them to foster and develop positive relationships with and between all learners.
- When exploring a problem, we separate the child from their behaviour – this emphasises their developing control over and responsibility for their own choices
- We look at conversations about behaviour as formative and one way of developing a child's resilience and emotional intelligence
- We do not over-react; a low-drama approach helps children to engage positively in a process of 'putting things right', and we seek to diffuse problematic situations swiftly and with no fuss
- We maintain clarity around the difference between taking action and punishment
- We are mindful of children's experience of success
- All behaviour is communication; a child who behaves in a disruptive or unkind way etc. is by definition vulnerable
- We are not euphemistic when behaviour is not acceptable or appropriate – but we challenge in an affirmative and positive way as we support children in 'putting things right'.
- 'Positives' are public, 'problems' are more private
- We are not judgemental – we act in the best interests of the children. We are 'in their corner' even when their behaviour choices are poor or challenging.
- We always acknowledge any improvement in behaviour – and we acknowledge when a child engages with the process of putting things right and moving on
- Encouraging parental engagement and involvement is absolutely crucial when addressing and planning support for children's SEMH needs.

"The parent-child connection is the most powerful mental health intervention known to mankind"

(Bessel van der Kolk)

1. Expectations and Boundaries

A shared language when exploring behaviour is critical. It is important that all adults in the school model the expectations; we understand that our behaviour as adults has a huge impact – and that the children should always know what to expect of us. We must be mindful of the children's high expectations of the adults as well as our expectations of them.

Our 'Golden Rules/Code of Conduct' (a set of reminders / guidelines for all adults and children in school) is a starting point in our approach to establishing a shared understanding of what we can expect of each other:

Golden Rules linked to our Christian values

In order to maintain a bright stimulating, welcoming environment where children can reach their full potential, children will be expected to be:

READY, RESPECTFUL, SAFE, by

- Listening and responding to each other politely and valuing each other. We value tolerance.
- Following instructions. We value co-operation and trust.
- Being prepared and ready for our day. We value responsibility and hope.
- Concentrating on our work, especially when it is challenging. We value courage.
- Showing our care for each other by using kindness and good manners. We value friendship, love and forgiveness.
- Being polite. We value respect.
- Always telling the truth and make the right choices. We value honesty and trust.
- Being gentle with our hands and feet and move around our school quietly and safely. We value peace and respect.
- Respecting each other's right to learn and do our best. We value knowledge.

- Caring for and valuing our school community and everything in it.

Part of a positive and supportive climate for learning is a set of clearly communicated expectations and routines. Positive routines should be in place for:

- Start and end of day
- Transition times
- Moving around e.g. to collective worship
- Getting ready for play
- Break and lunchtimes

How we promote and support children's wellbeing, self-regulation etc

- PSHE curriculum
- Assemblies
- PD sessions with staff
- Posters, displays and information in the school building

Strategies and systems for supporting children's self-esteem:

- Public recognition, praise and attention
- Our Code of Conduct
- Mindful and deliberate use of affirmative and esteeming language (including body language, presence, gesture and voice) – including meaningful praise
- Sticker charts
- Marbles in the jar
- Celebration worship
- Stickers, stamps, stars and other tangible rewards and recognitions

Bronze, Silver and Gold awards

Star of the week

Golden tickets

- Golden Time / chosen class event - a shared reward that the whole class earns and is never taken away from individuals as a punishment. We are always mindful to ensure that all children in a cohort are included in these rewards using positive strategies.

A key principle is to actively look for opportunities to praise, celebrate and esteem effort and positive choices in an appropriately public forum such as in front of the class or in collective worship. We endeavour to make rewards etc. 'high value'; things which engage and esteem pupils in a meaningful way. All rewards are accompanied by positive talk and individual attention.

2. Supporting Children with Social, Emotional and Mental Health Needs

It is a core aim that every member of our school community feels valued and respected, and that each person is treated fairly and well. We recognise that children may experience a range of social and emotional or medical difficulties which manifest themselves in many ways. This may include children presenting with challenging, disruptive or concerning behaviour. These behaviours may reflect underlying mental health difficulties, social interaction differences or sensory disorders. Other children may have attention or attachment difficulties. These children will be supported using a variety of strategies, developed with key adults in the child's life – staff / professionals / family – in order to best meet their needs.

We recognise that children with SEMH needs may present with behaviours which reflect a hyper- or hypo- state and that the behaviour/s come from a place of fear, stress, low self-esteem, dysregulation or as a result of an external or school-based barrier to learning – pitch of task, classroom environment etc.

We also recognise the needs of children with SEND and follow the policies and procedures associated with supporting these children and meeting their needs.

Key principles in supporting the universal needs of all children:

- All behaviour is a reflection of a person's emotional state
- Understanding of the impact of stress and fear on behaviour
- Children have different levels of stress
- You can't always see the 'trigger'
  - Behaviours communicate a need
- Scared children sometimes do / say scary things
- Don't take things personally
- 'Negative' behaviour mostly comes from an unconscious place
- In times of stress children's thinking processes are distorted and confused and short-term memory is suppressed
- Children who are stressed are unable to access the thinking part of their brain
- Children without the strategies and skills need to manage their emotions

Therefore, in practice:

- We do not judge, we do not use the language of punishment
- We are mindful that our focus has to be on the children and their behaviour and wellbeing, and not on our emotional reaction to it
- We provide a nurturing, structured environment

- We use 'wondering' in order to explore the potential cause of the behaviour
- We give children time, space and support when stressed before attempting to challenge / explore the behaviour
- We engage children at an emotional level
- We regulate and manage our own emotions
- We use staff presence to help reduce stress
- We name needs
- We use empathetic commentary 'I know you are cross', 'I know this is tricky'
- We understand that trauma can impact on behaviour

Research suggests that when schools place a strong emphasis upon the emotional health and well-being of all members of the school community, and this ethos is driven by the school's leadership team and is evident in practice, this leads to better outcomes for all – e.g. staff retention, pupil attendance and attainment, positive home-school relationships (Banerjee, R., Weare, K., & Farr, W. (2014). This guidance promotes the idea that the SEMH needs of all should be at the heart of the school.

3. How we respond to problematic or concerning behaviours / incidents:

Our key approach here is to take proportionate action to address problematic behaviour, looking for opportunities to have formative conversations in following up and then where necessary providing opportunities for restorative actions in order to 'put it right and move on'.

Our 'go-to' strategy is to have a structured conversation with the child/ren involved. These conversations should be:

- Formative – the conversation needs to be focused on supporting the child's learning / understanding of the situation and its implications
- Restorative – the conversation needs to unpack what went wrong, why and, most important, how we can put it right and keep it right
- Clear – we need to point out what the issue with the behaviour is, e.g., was it unkind, hurtful, harmful, dangerous etc. NB We are mindful that we describe the behaviour not the child. These are sometimes called "serious conversations".

All staff are expected to remain calm and respectful in these situations and be mindful to take a 'coaching' role when solving problems rather than a combative / judgemental / 'refereeing' role where possible whilst being clear that some behaviour has to be challenged as unacceptable / unhelpful / inappropriate.

We avoid being euphemistic, whilst steering clear of more judgemental language like 'naughty' or 'bad'. Examples of language in response to problematic behaviours:

'Kicking hurts – we mustn't hurt each other'

'Your words hurt Florence's feelings – they were unkind words; being unkind is not ok'

'It is important to listen to instructions to keep everyone safe; how can I make it easier for you to listen carefully?'

'Sahil is upset because of what happened – what can we do to put it right?'

'I know you are feeling cross – let me help you put this right'

We diffuse problematic situations and we time our interventions carefully. We are mindful that 'taking action' is not the same as 'punishing', and we endeavour to challenge poor / harmful behaviour and support and encourage children to engage in a process of 'putting things right'.

We believe that many behaviours are learnt and therefore the role of learning is key for children to learn how to put things right. The teacher or other grown up has a key role to play in teaching children how to 'get it right'. We avoid responding to and following up poor / problematic behaviour publicly, for example with names on the board etc. Having a restorative approach, which children are more likely to engage positively with, is more likely to have good results. Minor problems are challenged gently and swiftly with reminders or prompts and if necessary, a longer conversation. We always positively acknowledge when pupils engage with this and put the problem right. e.g., 'Thanks for putting that right with no fuss.'

Class teachers may choose to have an informal word with the child's/children's parents/carers at home time handover (or by phone if necessary) – this needs, wherever possible, to include reassurances that the situation has been addressed and sorted and that no action is necessary - and that the child has 'put things right and moved on'. We are mindful that this is a public forum and will talk more privately if necessary. We never ask parents / carers to punish their children and we explain where we need teachers and parents / carers to be giving the same messages. Again, we always positively acknowledge a pupil's success in putting things right.

When an incident occurs, which is judged to be more complex or serious, the adult/s involved will ask all children involved to complete a 'What Happened' sheet where appropriate; it is an absolute expectation that this is accompanied with a lot of talk to establish what the problem was, possible reasons why this happened and what needs to be done next. The adult explicitly models how we discuss and solve problems.

Where an issue has arisen at lunchtime, the lunchtime team adults will need to share the issue with the child's class teacher. Visiting teachers/supply teachers must seek advice and support from another teacher. The adult is required to encourage children to find ways to put things right and move on; this will depend on the individual circumstances.

- We remember that all behaviour communicates a need
- We keep separate our feelings about the behaviour from our affection, respect and positive regard for the child
- We bear in mind that our response and actions should be differentiated – depending on which child/ren are involved, what happened, what the context is, what the child's needs are – with few exceptions there is not a standard response
- Our main approach when responding to problematic behaviour / incidents is to: ascertain what has happened (using a cause-and-effect map if necessary); allow the child involved a chance to come down from their heightened state if necessary

- Pupil voice from 'all sides' is vital when supporting formative / restorative conversations with children

Specific Roles:

Teachers

Ensure parents are contacted when:

- a child is having ongoing issues
- there has been a 'one off issue' or a 'significant issue'

Where possible the teacher should do this to have the ongoing dialogue. On some occasions, a member of the Leadership Team or a member of the class team will liaise with parents for significant one-off issues. For ongoing issues, a discussion should be had with the parent(s) as to the best way to keep a dialogue going.

ELSA and Thrive Trained Practitioners:

- Provide specific support for children experiencing any difficulties, whether this is an ongoing need or a short term difficult a child may be having.
- Provide support in class and at break and lunchtimes
- Provide 1:1 or group work to support emotional health needs and mindfulness
- Run the pastoral room

Leadership Team (the DSL team and SENDCO)

- Lead the ethos of this policy
- Ensures the policy is implemented effectively
- Ensures effective training for staff
- Oversees the specific needs of pupils across the school
- Provides support to staff, pupils and parents as necessary
- Links with outside agencies to offer additional services
- Line manager for the learning mentors
- Ensures that all tracking and reporting of incidents and additional needs are up to date

Headteacher

- Is the only person authorised to exclude a child

Parents/Carers

- Inform the school of any concerns (Class teacher, Leadership Team,)
- Have an open dialogue with the school
- Support the school when needing to get further support

Governors

- Setting down these general guidelines on policy and of reviewing the effectiveness of this
- Duty to consider parents' representations about an exclusion
- The role of Herefordshire Council
- The EP service to provide training for schools: key adult training; attachment ACEs and trauma; ELS; Emotion Coaching; Growth Mind Sets; Restorative Approaches
- The EP service to work with all schools self-evaluating their practise using an Attachment Aware Self-Evaluation form.
- The Virtual School to give advice and guidance on children in care.

How the school supports staff well-being and reflection

It is important that the school provides emotional support for staff to help manage stress and secondary trauma, thereby reducing the likelihood of staff burnout. (Gore, Langton and Boy, 2017) The school staff are the greatest resource who bring the school to life and provide care for vulnerable people. The school is committed to providing appropriate training for all staff to have the knowledge, skills and confidence to complete their role. Self-care of the staff includes: physical, emotional, intellectual, social, creative and spiritual. Whole school actions are based on these areas. Peer support and supervision sessions are critical in providing coping resources for those working with dysregulated children. Team members can act as a course of validation and resilience for their co-workers with supervision sessions enabling staff to reflect and develop professional practice.

Bullying

Our school does not tolerate bullying of any kind. If we discover that an act of bullying or intimidation has taken place, we act immediately to stop any further occurrences of such behaviour. While it is very difficult to eradicate bullying, we do everything in our power to ensure that all children attend school free from fear. Please see 'Anti-Bullying' Policy.

Positive Handling

All members of staff are aware of the regulations regarding the use of force by teachers, as set out in DfEE Circular 10/98, relating to section 550A of the Education Act 1996: The Use of Force to Control or Restrain Pupils. Teachers in our school do not hit, push or slap children. Staff only intervene physically to restrain children or to prevent injury to another child, or if a child is in danger of hurting him/herself. The actions that we take are in line with government guidelines on the restraint of children.

School staff who have completed a course in 'de-escalation strategies and positive handling interventions' may have to restrain a pupil. In these circumstances, a 'serious incident report' will be completed and filed. The school will telephone the parents of the child involved to explain the situation. Please see the 'Positive Handling' policy.

4. Practice and policy review process

This policy will be reviewed by the Leadership Team and the governing body every 3 years or sooner if required involving an ongoing cycle applying Attachment Aware principles into practice and policy development.

Appendix 1: A guide to supporting regulation through responsive Co-regulation Plans

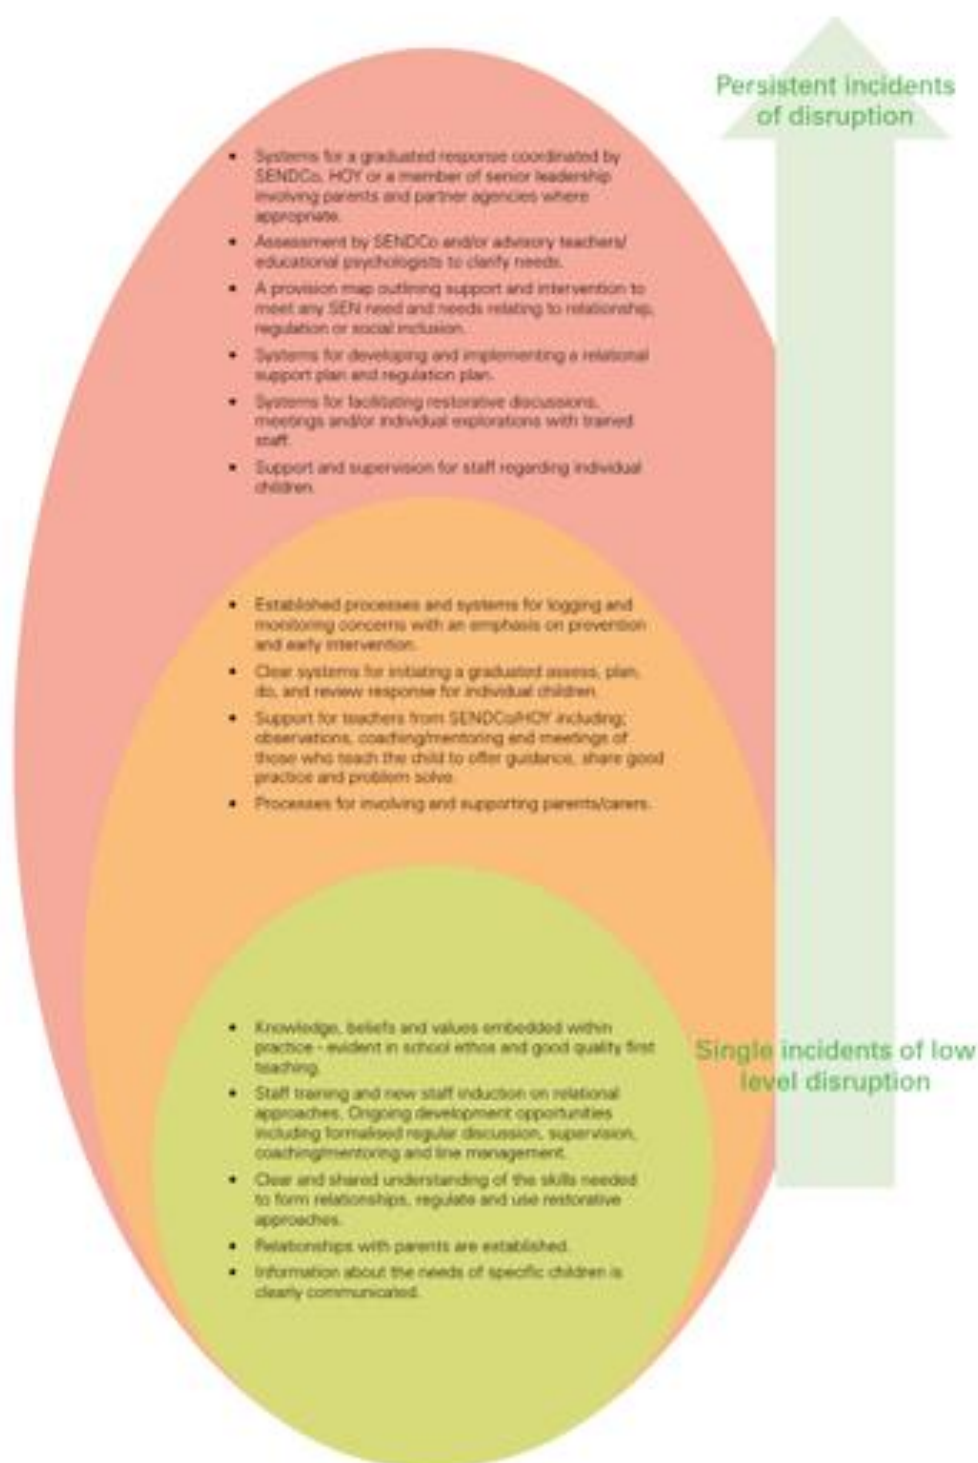

State of Regulation	Potential displayed behaviours	Responsive co-regulation
Calm Safe/socially engaged	Steady heart/breathing rate. Calm state of arousal. Open to social engagement. Expressive facial expression and voice prosody. Able to listen, process language and engage in thinking to learn.	Maximise expressive social engagement. Fully engage and connect using the face, voice, movement. Encourage listening and expressive responses. Engage thinking skills to reflect and make connections. Introduce gentle challenge through play/activity.
Mild Stress Alert/Agitated/Withdrawn	Slightly raised heart/breathing rate. Signs of agitation, frustration, anxiety. Raised hypervigilance. Lack of focus, easily distracted. Increased mobilisation. Early signs of needing to take control or helplessness.	Connect through eye contact, movement and facial expression. Express calmness through storytelling prosody and open facial expression. Attune to mood, intensity and energy of the child. Respond by being more animated to attune to agitation, increase intensity to attune to anger, be gentle and delicate to attune to sadness. Respond empathically and validate feelings. Use calming, soothing and regulatory activities.
Dysregulated Mobilised	High levels of arousal/distress. Hyper vigilant. Difficulty listening and focusing. Mobilised – fidgeting, jumping, running, climbing etc. Raised voice with lack of prosody. Decreased expressivity. Threatening behaviour. Oppositional behaviour.	Reduce social demands whilst remaining present. Provide individual attention. Convey adult containment. Let them know you are able to 'hold' their dysregulation by remaining regulated. Convey your calm and regulated state by being confident and contained. Use quiet, calm sounds and tones which are expressive and confident. Reduce language, give short clear directions. Avoid questions and choices. Use predictable routine. Reduce sensory input, lights, noise. Use sensory soothing.
Dysregulated Immobolised	Lowered heart/breathing rate. Reduced energy. Shuts off from surroundings/dissociates. Depressed state. Immobile/frozen. May feel faint.	Gentle, soft and delicate manner of coming close, making them aware of your presence and support. Use comforting and predictable voice. Use invited touch to soothe. Singing, humming, music. Use sensory soothing. Calm and gentle reassurance.
Crisis	The child's behaviour means that they or other people are not safe.	An individualised plan of action which outlines action to be taken in the event of unsafe behaviour. This may include advice from outside agencies. The plan should be shared with the child and include their views as to what helps and with all staff working with the child. Roles and responsibilities should be clear. If the plan includes physical intervention staff should have had the appropriate training. Devon LA recommend PIPS training. Adults need to provide high levels of containment through their way of being – having a plan can help.

Appendix 2: An Attachment Aware approach to disruptive classroom behaviour

Appendix 3: Disruptive classroom behaviour: processes and systems

Appendix 4: P.L.A.C.E. Approach (Dan Hughes)

PLAYFULNESS is about creating an atmosphere of lightness and interest when you communicate. An open, ready, calm, relaxed and engaged attitude.

LOVE is about creating loving relationships - all children need love.

ACCEPTANCE is about actively communicating to the child that you accept the wishes, feelings, thoughts, urges, motivates and perceptions that are underneath the outward behaviour.

Unconditionally accepting a child makes them feel secure, safe and loved.

CURIOSITY is wondering about the meaning behind the behaviour for the child. Curiosity lets the child know that the adults understand. Without judgement, children become aware of their inner life.

EMPATHY is the adult demonstrating that he or she knows how difficult an experience is for the child. The adult is telling the child that she will not have to deal with the distress alone. Empathy gives a sense of compassion for the child and their feelings.

Appendix 5: Exclusions

We are committed to providing early intervention and support to reduce the risk of exclusion.

However if a child continues to struggle with their behaviour choices in a way which seriously undermines others' right to learn and be safe, then they may need to be excluded from school for their own and/or others' safety. At this point we will conclude that all other avenues of support must have been exhausted at this point. Exclusion is extremely rare and is an absolute last resort – as an organisation we are anti-exclusion; we feel that school is the best place for children to learn and develop self-discipline and we understand the damaging effect of exclusion.

In the event of exclusion of a child being considered, we would follow the procedure as set out in the DfE's Guidance: Suspension and Permanent Exclusion from Maintained Schools, Academies and Pupil Referral Units in England including Pupil Movement. September 2022

The following constitute some of the behaviours which may lead to either a suspension or permanent exclusion. There is an expectation that these issues can be resolved without the need for exclusion. They include:

- fighting or encouraging others to fight
- hurting another child or adults deliberately
- abusive, threatening or derogatory, discriminatory and racist language or behaviour towards other children or adults
- bullying (peer-on-peer abuse) and harassment, which is a pattern of behaviour aimed at harming another person or people including prejudice based bullying and cyberbullying
- damage to property
- persistent defiance and refusal to follow instructions
- theft
- use of offensive sexualised language, sexual abuse or assault
- carrying, threatening to use or using a weapon

**Racist / homophobic / prejudiced / derogatory incidents are always recorded on Arbor and are referred to the LA as necessary.*

The behaviour of pupils outside of the school can also be considered as grounds for exclusion. We may exclude a pupil for any serious or persistent breach of the behaviour policy while the pupil is:

- taking part in any school-organised or school related activity
- travelling to and from school

Parents/carers of children who have been involved in these incidents will be informed of the outcome without delay. Parents will be notified of the period of any exclusion, the reasons for it and their legal responsibilities during the first five days of the child's exclusion. The decision to permanently exclude a pupil may be taken:

- In response to serious or persistent breaches of the school's behaviour policy; and
- Where allowing the pupil to remain in school would seriously harm the education or welfare of the pupil or others in the school.

In the case of a suspension, the child and their parent/carer must attend a reintegration meeting before returning to school. The Federation promotes community cohesion and takes a no tolerance approach to racism/homophobia/ any prejudice-based incidents. All incidents are recorded, reported and investigated according to the Federation's Racist Incident Recording, Reporting and Investigating Procedures and is monitored by the Leadership Team and reported to governors as necessary.

Fixed-term and permanent exclusions

In extreme cases it may be necessary to exclude a pupil from school. At Ivington this approach would only be adopted as a last resort. Exclusions may be temporary or permanent. When excluding a pupil the following procedures will be adhered to:

Only the head teacher (or the acting head teacher) has the power to exclude a pupil from school. The head teacher may exclude a pupil for one or more fixed periods, for up to 45 days in any one school year. The head teacher may also exclude a pupil permanently. It is also possible for the head teacher to convert a fixed-term exclusion into a permanent exclusion, if the circumstances warrant this.

If the head teacher excludes a pupil, she informs the parents immediately, giving reasons for the exclusion. At the same time, the head teacher makes it clear to the parents that they can, if they wish, appeal against the decision to the governing body. The school will advise the parents on how to make any such appeal. Parents are required to attend a re-integration meeting on the day of the child's re-entry to school, at which the individual behaviour plan is discussed and adapted as necessary.

The head teacher will inform the Local Authority and the Governing Body about any permanent exclusion, and about any fixed-term exclusions beyond five days in any one term.

The Governing Body has a discipline committee which is made up of between three and five members. This committee considers any exclusion appeals on behalf of the Governors.

When an appeals panel meets to consider an exclusion, they consider the circumstances in which the pupil was excluded, consider any representation by parents and the Local Authority, and consider whether the pupil should be reinstated.

If the Governors' appeals panel decides that a pupil should be reinstated, the headteacher will comply with this ruling.

Exclusions will occur in accordance with the DfE guidance (2008), part of which is stated below:

THE DECISION TO EXCLUDE

A decision to exclude a pupil permanently should be taken only:

- a) in response to serious breaches of the school's relationships policy; and
- b) if allowing the pupil to remain in school would seriously harm the education or welfare of the pupil or others in the school.

A decision to exclude a pupil for a fixed period should be taken, on a balance of probabilities, only in response to breaches of the school's behaviour policy, including persistent disruptive behaviour, where these are not serious enough to warrant permanent exclusion and lesser sanctions are considered inappropriate. Individual fixed period exclusions should be for the shortest time necessary, bearing in mind that exclusions of more than a day or two make it more difficult for the pupil to reintegrate into the school afterwards. Ofsted inspection evidence suggests that 1-3 days are often long enough to secure the benefits of exclusion without adverse educational consequences. Where it is clear that fixed period exclusions are not being effective in deterring poor behaviour, for example if they are being repeatedly imposed on a pupil in response to the same behaviour, head teachers/teachers in charge should consider alternative strategies for addressing that behaviour.

Only the head teacher (or, in the absence of the head teacher the acting head teacher or teacher in charge) can exclude a pupil. Other exclusion-related activities do not have to be undertaken by the head teacher personally, but may be delegated.

A decision to exclude a child permanently is a serious one and should only be taken where the basic facts have been clearly established on the balance of probabilities. It will usually be the final step in a process for dealing with disciplinary offences following a wide range of other strategies which have been tried without success. It is an acknowledgement by the school that it has exhausted all available strategies for dealing with the child and should normally be used as a last resort.

There will, however, be exceptional circumstances where, in the head teacher's/teacher in charge's judgment, it is appropriate to permanently exclude a child for a first or 'one off' offence. These might include:

- a) serious actual or threatened violence against another pupil or a member of staff;
  - b) sexual abuse or assault;
  - c) supplying an illegal drug; or
  - d) carrying an offensive weapon (for advice on what constitutes an offensive weapon, see School Security – Dealing with Troublemakers – Chapter 6 at www.dcsf.gov.uk/schoolsecurity/dwt6offensive\_weapons.shtml)
- Schools now have a power to screen and search pupils for weapons (please see guidance at : <http://www.teachernet.gov.uk/docbank/index.cfm?id=11454> )

Permanent Exclusions

In most cases permanent exclusion will be the last resort after a range of measures have been tried to improve the pupil's behaviour. In schools and LAs a range of strategies should be in place to address the types of behaviour which may lead to exclusion. Head teachers should be able to refer pupils identified as at risk of permanent or fixed period exclusion to alternative or additional provision to meet their individual needs, which could include using Early Help to engage the support of other agencies. Many such strategies have proved successful, with few pupils going on to be excluded. The school continues to be responsible for these pupils unless they are permanently excluded.

It is the responsibility of the Governing Body to monitor the rate of exclusions, and to ensure that the school policy is administered fairly and consistently.

Appendix 6: Bullying / Child on Child Abuse

Bullying is defined as the repetitive, intentional harming of one person or group by another person or group, where the relationship involves an imbalance of power. Bullying is, therefore:

- Deliberately hurtful
- Repeated, often over a period of time
- Difficult to defend against

Bullying can include:

Type of Bullying	Definition
Emotional	Being unfriendly, excluding, tormenting
Physical	Hitting, kicking, pushing, taking another's belongings, any use of violence
Prejudice-based and discriminatory including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Racial</li><li>• Faith based</li><li>• Gendered (sexist)</li><li>• Homophobic/biphobic/transphobic</li><li>• Disability-based</li></ul>	Taunts, gestures, graffiti or physical abuse focused on a particular characteristic (e.g. gender, race, sexuality)
Sexual	Explicit sexual remarks, display of sexual material, sexual gestures, unwanted physical attention, comments about sexual reputation or performance, or inappropriate touching
Direct or indirect verbal	Name-calling, sarcasm, spreading rumours, teasing
Cyber-bullying	Bullying that takes place online, such as through social networking sites, messaging apps or gaming sites
Hazing	Hazing or initiation ceremonies refers to the practice of rituals, challenges, and other activities involving harassment, abuse or humiliation used as a way of initiating a person into a group Further details can be found in our separate anti-bullying information.

Appendix 7: Physical Intervention 'reasonable force'

As a result of our approaches to supporting the needs of children with additional needs it is very rare that the use of 'reasonable force' / restraint / manual handling / physical intervention is required. If a situation does occur, staff will use every possible solution to deescalate the situation and to avoid having to resort to any physical contact in terms of managing behaviour.

The law states that it is permissible to use 'reasonable force' to prevent pupils committing an offence, injuring themselves or others, or damaging property and to maintain good order in the classroom. This is a last resort and will only ever be used in extremis.

If such actions are necessary, the actions that we take aim to use the minimum amount of force necessary for the minimum amount of time necessary. Where physical intervention is needed and used, this will be recorded on Arbor.

Many staff are trained in Team Teach positive handling to ensure that any physical intervention is appropriate and safe. Where physical intervention is required, staff trained in Team Teach will where possible take priority in dealing with an incident.

Appendix 9: What happened sheets?

All staff should help a child to complete a What Happened Sheet when there has been a serious incident of concerning behaviour. Adults are advised to complete the 'What Happened' section first and then explore the other areas, 'why did it happen?' and 'what happened as a result' sections as appropriate, scaffolding the conversation to ascertain what might have led to the incident, what unmet needs the child/ren involved might have, and what needs to happen to put it right.

Completed documents to be scanned and added to a child's Scholarpack record as necessary.
